

Minor English Language and Culture

Description

This minor offers an overview of the various fundamental aspects that reveal the nature and function of the English language in the English speaking world. It seeks to develop an awareness of the richness of the language itself by examining its lexico-grammatical and discoursal features and by establishing the appropriate links between the language and its culture. The minor also offers to consolidate a proficient linguistic and pragmatic competence in the English language and to raise an awareness of its increasing use as an international language.

Pre-Requisites

The students are required to show at least an ALTE 3 level of proficiency in this language.
